1. Project overview

Kogzen Innovative Solutions proposes a custom corporate website that gives True Harvest Cocoa a clear, credible platform to share its story, explain its model and build relationships with buyers, partners, investors and other stakeholders.

Inspired by the visual direction and user experience of the client-approved SIG Consulting reference, the website will establish a distinct True Harvest Cocoa identity. Kogzen will coordinate the engagement from domain and hosting configuration through design, development and public launch, then remain available for 12 months of complimentary support.

Project objectives

The website will communicate the company's purpose, capabilities and impact; make its information easy to explore; and give interested visitors a clear route to enquire. Strong imagery, thoughtfully presented content and clear calls to action will support a professional first impression and future business conversations.

2. Proposed website structure

The scope covers approximately five primary pages, plus a temporary Coming Soon page. Final page names and content organization will be agreed during planning within this overall scope.

Home

An engaging introduction to the company, its purpose and value proposition, with selected highlights of its approach, impact, capabilities and a clear invitation to connect.

About Us

The company story, mission, philosophy and approach, with team information where supplied and appropriate.

Our Model or What We Do

A structured explanation of True Harvest Cocoa's model, operations and capabilities, supported by supplied imagery and simple visual explanations where appropriate.

Impact and Resources

A presentation of company impact and selected supplied updates, insights or resources. The initial content and format will be confirmed during planning; additional pages and advanced publishing features remain subject to scope agreement.

Contact Us

Business contact details and a professional enquiry form for prospective partners and stakeholders.

3. Design and complete implementation

Custom design and user experience

Kogzen will adapt the approved SIG Consulting reference to True Harvest Cocoa's brand, content and audience. The design will use professional typography, brand colours, clear navigation, consistent headers and footers, and considered photography or video placement. Appropriate interactive elements will support the agreed design. Layouts will be responsive across desktop, tablet and mobile devices.

Initial setup and Coming Soon page

Kogzen will connect the client's domain to the hosting environment, configure the hosting and website installation, and set up SSL/HTTPS where supported by the hosting provider. A professional Coming Soon or Under Construction page will be an early deliverable once the necessary access and brand assets are available, giving the domain a purposeful presence during development.

Development and content implementation

The engagement includes website architecture and page planning, user experience planning, custom visual design, responsive development, site configuration, navigation and footer development, and implementation of supplied copy, images and media. Kogzen will provide guidance on content placement and light copy editing for clarity and consistency.

A contact/enquiry form, social media links, basic search-engine-friendly page structure, general performance optimization and baseline security configuration are included within the capabilities of the selected platform and hosting environment.

Testing and quality assurance

Before launch, Kogzen will review desktop, tablet and mobile layouts; navigation and links; form submission and enquiry delivery to the agreed recipient; visual consistency; basic compatibility with current mainstream browsers; general performance; and content and layout accuracy.

Approval and public launch

True Harvest Cocoa will review the completed website before final payment. Following completion, client approval and receipt of the final CAD $500 payment, Kogzen will deploy the approved website, replace the Coming Soon page, complete final domain checks and verify the live website and enquiry functionality.

4. Complimentary website enhancements

WhatsApp chat integration

Visitors will be able to start a WhatsApp conversation with True Harvest Cocoa directly from the website using the client's designated number. This includes a website chat link or button; automated messaging, chatbots and paid WhatsApp API services are outside this inclusion.

Favicon and browser identity setup

Kogzen will configure the supplied brand identity for browser tabs, bookmarks and compatible browser/device environments, creating a consistent and polished finishing detail. Both enhancements are included at no additional development cost.

5. Collaboration and client responsibilities

A close working relationship and timely decisions will keep the project focused. True Harvest Cocoa will appoint a primary contact to consolidate feedback and provide approvals on behalf of the organization.

Content and brand materials

The client will provide its logo, available brand guidelines, approved company information and website copy, photographs, videos, relevant team details, contact information, social media links, and any reports or statistics intended for publication. True Harvest Cocoa is responsible for the accuracy of supplied information and for having permission to use supplied materials.

Kogzen will organize and implement these materials and assist with light editing. Original long-form copywriting, photography, video production, translation and extensive content creation are outside the quoted scope unless separately agreed.

Access and approvals

The client will provide the required domain, hosting and website access; a designated enquiry email address and WhatsApp number; and any client-approved privacy or other policy text needed for publication. The client will maintain the necessary third-party subscriptions and provide consolidated feedback and approvals at agreed review points.

6. Project timeline

Estimated delivery is 4–6 weeks after the required content, brand assets and access credentials have been received, with proposal acceptance and the upfront payment in place. The schedule below is indicative; activities may overlap.

Phase	Indicative timing
Planning and setup	Week 1 — confirm structure, access and content; configure environment and Coming Soon page
Design	Weeks 1–2 — develop and review the visual direction
Development	Weeks 2–4 — build responsive pages and implement supplied content
Review and launch	Weeks 4–6 — QA, client review, final adjustments, approval, final payment and public launch

The schedule depends on timely client feedback, approvals, content delivery and access to third-party services. If any dependency is delayed or the scope changes, Kogzen will discuss the effect on the delivery schedule with True Harvest Cocoa.

7. Revisions and scope management

Reasonable revisions to the agreed design, supplied content and existing page layouts are included during design and development. Feedback should be consolidated at the agreed review points. The fee reflects approximately five primary pages and the overall complexity of the approved SIG Consulting reference.

Revisions refine the agreed direction; they do not provide unlimited redesigns or open-ended development. Material changes to approved architecture or design, additional pages, new functionality or integrations, and substantial rework will be scoped separately. Kogzen will explain any additional fee and timeline impact and obtain written approval before undertaking that work.

8. Twelve months of complimentary support

Our relationship with True Harvest Cocoa continues after launch. For 12 months from the public launch date, Kogzen will provide complimentary maintenance and minor update support to keep the implemented website current and functioning effectively.

Included support

Support covers reasonable text updates, image replacements, contact-information changes, updates to existing content, minor adjustments to existing layouts, routine website maintenance and basic troubleshooting related to the implemented website. Routine maintenance includes applicable updates to the existing website software and components within the supported platform.

Support boundaries

This benefit covers maintenance and small changes to the existing website. It excludes new pages, major redesigns, substantial new functionality, new integrations, extensive content entry or creation, and work that materially expands the original scope. Hosting migrations, major platform upgrades and recovery from third-party failures are separately scoped when they require substantial work.

Requests will be reviewed and scheduled according to their size and urgency; this is not an unlimited development allocation or a 24-hour monitoring or emergency response service. Kogzen will identify work outside the included support and obtain approval of a separate quote before proceeding. Third-party fees remain the client's responsibility throughout the support period.

Any support beyond the complimentary 12-month period can be agreed separately. No paid renewal is included in this proposal.

9. Project investment and payment terms

Total project investment: CAD $1,000

This one-time investment covers the complete engagement described in this proposal, from planning and technical setup to custom design, responsive development, content implementation, testing, deployment and public launch. WhatsApp chat integration, favicon setup and 12 months of maintenance and minor update support are complimentary.

Payment	Amount and due point
50% upfront	CAD $500 — due upon acceptance, before work begins
50% final	CAD $500 — due after completion and client approval, but before public launch
Total	CAD $1,000 — all proposal amounts are in Canadian dollars

Third-party cost exclusions

Domain registration or renewal, hosting subscriptions, premium plugins, licensed imagery, paid software and other external services are not included in the project fee. Any necessary third-party expense will be discussed with and approved by True Harvest Cocoa before purchase. Configuration support does not include the cost of those services or guarantee their availability.
